Spectator Notes

Jay Hannah, who is moving his radio shop to 6th across from the firehouse, is planning a real Carmel party to warm the place. He is going to invite several of the area's leading artists to come and paint the back wall of Carl & Chan's service station, which runs along one side of his yard. He expects that they will complete the job within a couple of hours. His less talented friends can also paint—the inside of the house. Music, singing, dancing, food and drink will round out the affair.

Margot Campbell is off this weekend for London. She will be working in the London office of Best from Britain. Before sailing next week aboard the Maasdam Margot will visit her fiance Pete Hurd at Quantico, Va. Her sister Judy will make the trip with her, and both have already been invited to several parties for their first week in England. Included is one given by the Arts Theater Club of London. Peter Elstob, son of Fred Elstob of Carmel, is one of the directors of the club. They have also been invited to a tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Iain Lang, he is the foreign editor of the London Times.

Guess what Orre Fessenden and Tavo Montoya are doing now! They are running a bar in Monterey. After trying an oriental shop and a dancing school, they figure this time maybe they've hit it. It's really simple they say, more people like beer than like Chinese figurines or dancing lessons.

Overheard in a shop—a lady was explaining that a friend of hers had recently had a tooth filled. The dentist told the friend to "only eat soup for the first day, then treat it carefully from then on. It may last 35 years."

A Carmel mother was explaining to the Spectator that kids have only a rough idea of who and what parents are. She told an illustrative story. Her husband and their two young daughters (aged 7 and 8) were hunting crabs. The father fell backwards on a rock and was temporarily paralyzed. The little one looked at her sister and said, "Maybe he'd dead." The other answered, "If he is dead, what'll we do with him?"

Mrs. Alan Hale, widow of the late movie actor, dropped into visit Bill Hall at the Mission Ranch the other night. Bill has worked with her husband in several pictures and the two were good friends. Incidentally, Bill's latest film was made with Alan Hale, Jr. and is called the "Girl in the Iron Mask."

Derek Rayne, Carmel's peripatetic dog show judge, is now on a REAL trip. He left Wednesday for Mexico City where he will—judge two dog shows, one terrier and the other working breeds. From there he will be off for Cuba where he will work in the big all-breed show. Then on to Caracas, capital of Venezuela, where he will judge two all-breed shows. Derek will fly all the way. He will be accompanied most of the way by Bert Heath of Los Angeles, who will also judge at the Caracas show. Derek says he plans to take a little time at each stop to see some of the surrounding country.

Rumor has it that Big Bob and Little Bob are leaving their Carmel Valley Country Club. The Spectator hears that Charlie Reed, Highlands Inn host, has bought the boys' year-round liquor license.

Among the events planned for the Elks' wives is a fashion show at the Highlands Inn next Thursday. Models will parade fall fashions provided by Harriet Duncan.

Village WeekSCHOOL BOARD TO DECIDE ON WHERE TO BUILD FOUR MORE CLASSROOMS

The Carmel School Board is expected to meet next Wednesday to study the results of a population survey made to guide building plans. The board is planning to build four classrooms, either at the Woods School or the River School site depending on which is most needed. The survey should show where the rooms should be built.

In either case five rooms will be built, the fifth to serve as office and storage space. Each building project would cost in the neighborhood of $70,000. The board has about $80,000 for building the units.

Although the preparation and grading of the River School site would appear to weigh against it, the board is faced with the problem of buying more playground space at Woods if more classrooms are added. These costs would be roughly the same.

Thus the problem will be principally decided on where the school age children live. Because of the growth of the southern part of Carmel and the unincorporated area adjacent (Mission Tract) it is very probable that the starting of the River School will be chosen. The possible annexation of the Bay School district of the Highlands may also weigh in the decision.

STORM DRAINAGE POLICY ADOPTED BY COUNCIL

The Carmel City Council has decided on the outlines of a policy to solve the drainage problems. Basically it will embody the traditional Carmel contributory plan of financing. Under this method, both the city and the property owners contribute to get the work done.

DON'T COME HERE

... If you want something just like what a friend has. We won't have it.

Our things are "choices" and impossible to duplicate. So, if you are one of the few remaining "individuals" who make others envy—at least see what we have. (Allow one hour for your visit—lots of stories about these things.) If you are a drooler, don't worry, we have a new sponge mop, and the floor needs cleaning anyway.

Because of the size of the job, the council feels that the work will have to be done over a long period of years. The city does not have sufficient funds to do much of this sort of work in the course of a year. Also, the street department, which provides the labor, does not have many man-days to be used in this manner.

Drainage work will be done according to an over-all plan which, when finished, will form a complete storm drainage system.

Property owners will contribute either money for materials or rights-of-way. The city will contribute labor and materials. The proportion will be decided on the basis of who gets the most benefit—the city as a whole or the property on which the work is done.

ABEL G. WARSHAWSKY'S painting of the Rue de Plantes, Paris, (above) has been acquired by the De Young Museum in San Francisco. The painting was the gift of a generous local donor in memory of Elsie Arden, a singer and musician. Miss Arden spent the greater part of her life in Paris and also lived in San Francisco, and in Monterey where she is now buried.

"CAMILLE" OPENS AT FIRST THEATRE

Abandoning the usual melodramatic vehicle, the First Theatre is now playing the well-known "Camille." The famous Dumas drama is given a thorough production with exceptionally fine costumes and sets and with Said Riza and Sue Lowry in the leads.

The enthusiastic opening-night audience left no doubt of its appreciation of both the elaborate settings and the numerous and beautiful gowns worn by the players. Erica Franke is responsible for the former and Rhoda Johnson made the latter.

Supporting the leads are John Kidwell, Frank Murphy, Alec Merivale, Melvin Isenberger, Bill Kaye, Madeline Hicks, Eleana Block, Sally Bartolini, and Barbara Glover.

Again leaving the First Theatre tradition, the current production features a "Franch Review" instead of the usual olio. Bruce Lowry was master of ceremonies of the variety show which included songs and dances by the "Camille" cast and others.

"Camille" will play through November 22 on Saturday nights only.

CARMELITES WIN LOS ANGELES PRIZES

Mary Sears and Marian Miller of Carmel are among the winners announced at Los Angeles' County Fair during the opening week of the silver anniversary observance to continue through September 28.

Miss Sears tied for first place and took an honorable mention in the bookbinding section of the Fine Arts division, and Miss Miller received second award for her display of leathercraft.

Helen Beecher of Carmel, took second place for weaving.

"It's not so much that they know what they like, but rather that they like what they know," said Lt. Col. William F. Santelmann, leader of the famed United States Marine Band, which will play two concerts here today at the Fort Ord Soldiers' Club under the auspices of Monterey Kiwanis Club.

Concerts will be given at both 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., Albert F. Randolph, Kiwanis Club president stated, and all proceeds will be used for Kiwanis youth and underprivileged childrens' work.

In commenting on how he builds programs for Marine Band concerts, Col. Santelmann said he uses the yardstick of familiarity. As he puts it, "Audiences like what they know. Marches still stimulate the greatest audience reaction."

The United States Marine Band is the outstanding musical organization of its kind in the country. Now on its fall tour, the 154-year old group has aided in shaping American history since its inception.

The famed band for generations has played for all official Washington functions, and once yearly brings to the American public away from the nation's capital, music that stirs the pulses, the greatest compositions of the most gifted composers of all ages, and musical artistry that has no equal.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

No Longer Two Sides to This Question!

Ever seen those two-family houses they have in some places—with separate front doors and porches—side by side? My sister owns half of one and lives in it, near Philadelphia.

Nice little frame home. Only Sis painted her half brown and the other family always painted theirs green. Ruined the effect—but for years neither family ever thought of suggesting that they both decide on a common shade.

Now Sis writes that their two-toned home is no longer. "I mentioned we were going to repaint," she says. "And they said let's get a color we all like. So we did. A nice shade of gray for both sides."

From where I sit, so often when there's a difference of opinion it's best to sit right down and work things out (like when our volunteer firemen decided to serve both lemonade and beer at their annual picnic last month). Don't let prejudices "color" your opinion of your neighbor. He'll probably be quite as open-minded as you are.

THE IKE JAMBOREE at the Mission Ranch last week brought out a sizable crowd of G.O.P. well-wishers who enjoyed an evening of varied entertainment. At the top, State Senator Fred Weybret had no sooner stepped inside the door when he was pinned by Audrey Graft. In the middle is a portion of the crowd watching Dee Cooke, one of the fashion show models in a Carolyn Kelsey outfit. At the bottom, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel de Maria of Monterey talk politics with Willard Branson, Carmel Valley, who is a member of the Republican county central committee.

The name MG stands supreme in the sports car world. Not only has this amazing automobile collected a tremendous list of track, distance, and time records, but it has also served many "ordinary" motorists faithfully day-in-day-out for regular business and pleasure runs. The MG owner knows not only the thrill of driving such a race-bred car, but he also enjoys real driving pleasure.

Combining exceptional road holding, cornering and acceleration qualities with rugged stamina, the MG is equally pleasant to drive around town as on trips and in competition. You have to drive an MG to feel the qualities a sports car offers.

The Morris Minor, built by the same Nuffield organization that builds the famous MG, is a master combination of economic motoring and excellent engineering throughout. Its ride is the same as "big cars" due to its excellent suspension system. Superb brakes and amazingly light, quick steering are notable assets. Combine this with 40 m.p.g. and you have the modern answer to pleasant yet economical transportation.

Florence Lockwood, whose portraits have become a prominent part of Carmel's art life, is a small quiet person whose softness of manner matches the pastels typical of her child studies.

A Santa Cruz native, she studied art first at the California Institute of Art in San Francisco, and for the first years of her marriage, to Charles Lockwood, used her talents only in an amateur capacity. Her husband, a native of Greenwich, Connecticut, made his business in Burlingame, and in 1930, Mrs. Lockwood first opened a studio in Piedmont. She had from the first been drawn to portraiture.

It was in 1932 that the Lockwoods came to Carmel, a move that followed their many visits here. Mrs. Lockwood opened a studio as soon as they arrived, and in 1940, after her husband's death, built the charming cream colored studio which she now occupies at the corner of Ocean and Forest.

Florence, Jr., Mrs. Lockwood's only child, is a vivid woman, with a hearty laugh and open attitude, as much a study in oils as her mother is in pastels. There is one grand-child, Xandria Cochrane, Florence, Jr.'s daughter by her now dissolved marriage to Steve Cochrane of Hollywood fame. The marriage is a prize example of a friendly divorce, in that Steve's mother is currently living with Florence, Jr., and was a prime cause for her recent trip to Alaska. When Mrs. Cochrane decided to see the world, her roving feet led her to Juneau, from where she sent "wish you were here" postcards to Florence, Jr. Never one to pass up a likely adventure, Florence, Jr. immediately packed Xandria and herself off for the cold country. "It was wonderful. Fine fishing and hunting. Stayed a year and a half," Florence says. Mrs. Cochrane, now just returned, is living with her former daughter-in-law and grandchild in Pebble Beach now, with a visit from Steve expected soon. The household is made lively by 2 Great Danes, 9 cats, and 2 parrots. "Anybody need a kitten?" Florence, Jr. asks. She is currently at work on a mystery, her first endeavor in that department, and one which she regards with a fine sense of detachment, "Maybe good, maybe not."

Florence, Sr. is currently, as always, busy executing commissions for portraits, "A well-known traveler of the Central Valley." She has done portraits of the late A.P. Giannini, of Bishop Block and of the Countess de Tristram. She is especially known for her work with children for which she uses pastels. "They're so fast the children don't know I've begun before I'm finished." It takes about 6 hours for a pastel, while an oil takes twice as long or more.

A relaxed and informal Mother and Daughter combination, the Lockwoods seem ideally suited to Carmel, both happily busy with the creative work, which Carmel seems to foster, and both contributing heartily to our fund of artistic talent.

Force Base last Sat. Was met at Alameda Air Base by his Dad in Pop's little air taxi, complete with Cadet Cumming's fiancée, United Air Lines hostess Pat. Green. The day before this, Pop Cummings has flown to L.A. and brought home students Jere and Larry, so it became a family celebration for Mom and Dad Cummings' 23rd wedding anniversary. Then the red Air Taxi returned Don to Alameda, Jere and Larry to L.A. and came home to roost awhile. Wonder if Pop Cummings ever meets himself coming or going somewhere. Oh yes—I hear Cadet Don and Patricia Green will make the big leap November 1st, and I don't mean parachute!

While we're at it, what a shame if our airport up here should be closed. Know how many planes have set down in grateful emergency landings when the Salinas and Monterey airports were closed in by far? It's a thought worth pondering.

Have your tickets for the Rose Bown Festival of Fashions at the C.V.C.C. the 3rd of October? Call Rose Brown at the Pine Inn or the Bobs at you know where.

The Ben Prieths with Pearl and Oscar Dixon of Antioch, seen deep in a huddle at Wib-by's Carousel, having their fortunes read by the renowned Frank Patasil. I thought Ben always looked for his fortunes in the bottom of a pinch-bottle, but he got it this night straight from the Yogi's Silex. . . Dangerous stuff, Ben changing balls in the middle of a dream.

Stanton Delaplane should of stood in bed. He columnized the cuisine of Los Laureles Lodge awhile back and now it looks like the lodge will have to stay open double-shift all winter. Seems they got a "Recommend to Duncan Hines" from Delaplane and now they've been almost swamped. And rightly so. That's what you call being sucked under by your own chow, ain't it? P.S. The Smiths and us were there last Saturday evening. I stole three packs of crackers off the table for my kids, put 'em in my coat pocket and someone spent all evening sitting on them. Crime does not pay!

A Carousel-surprise for Mrs. Wolf Friday included the Dr. Marcucci's, Mrs. W's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Abbott, Mrs. W's husband, Willie Wolf, Renee and Norman Poston and Wibby who was not invited but came and ate cake anyhow.

A Republican get-together in Madeline Miles Leoni's patio Garden last Saturday was attended by over sixty persons. Attorney Gill, running for supervisor spoke, and among those present I saw Judge Ray Baugh, Gill's wife and father, the DeMellos of Seaside and many other Peninsulites.

Harry Tanous doing a good deed for the kids. Can't tell you what it was because I can't contact Harry, but he did it and I know about it. Thanks, Harry.

OUTDOOR EDUCATION PROGRAM INITIATED

Sunset sixth grade students are going to Big Sur for a week of camping! Vacation? In October? No. This is a relatively new but very important phase of education, as was made clear Tuesday evening by the teachers and parents who do the most to carry out the outdoor education program.

Credit for initiating and promoting the outdoor education program in Carmel goes to Mr. James Blee, sixth grade teacher, who is also camp director. Mr. Ernest Calley supplies double skills with his vast knowledge of nature and crafts. Mrs. Gordon Reid and Mrs. Frances Wallace, who have both had much camping experience, have planned supplies and equipment and part of the program and will be on hand to help at camp. Other parents have volunteered to help, some as counselors, some in setting up or cleaning up the camp.

The Amateur Gardener

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS
By CHARLES W. DELANEY

A winter garden, in this area, is a source of great pleasure and satisfaction to the amateur gardener. The group of flowers known as the half-hardy annuals will supply a riot of color during the short winter days and they will require little watering. The rains will supply sufficient moisture.

Now is the time to set out the plants. They will grow into strong husky plants rapidly, while the soil is warm and they will be developed enough to withstand the few freezing nights.

PLANTING ANNUALS:

Before planting, spade in well rotted manure or compost to a depth of 8 inches, rake out the bed evenly and then put on a very fine spray of water. . . so that the water penetrates deep into the soil. As soon as the soil is just moist, but not sticky, the plants may be set in, firming the soil around the roots. Do not crowd the plants. They are spaced so that the leaves do not touch the other plants when they have grown to normal size.

This spacing permits the sun and air to reach all parts of the plants, which prevents rust and mildew from affecting the lower leaves. The soil can be gently cultivated after rains rust and mildew from affecting the lower leaves. The soil can be gently cultivated after rains to conserve the moisture in the soil and allow air to get to the root system.

GOOD WINTER ANNUALS

The best half-hardy annuals are easily grown from seed, but it is late to start them at this time. The nurseries have flats, well started and ready to be planted. The following is a list of these interesting annuals:

Calendulas - Lemon Queen, Tetra Snapdragons, Forget-Me-Nots, the old fashioned Wall-Flowers, in many colors, Primula malicoides, (primroses), hyacinth flowered candytuft, bachelor buttons, clarkia, godetia, nemesia, base-branching stock, pansies, violas, cinerarias, Virginia stock, purple sweet allysum.

Most annuals require full sunshine except nemesia, cineraria, wallflowers and clarkia. These require partial shade or a few hours of sun.

The pastel shade in calendulas are not as thrifty as the Lemon Queen. I do not care for the orange shades, they make a poor showing. Stocks may be obtained in separate colors, avoid the purple or magenta shades.

The primula are very hardy and are available in four colors.

The cineraria-stellata are very hardy; the giant flowered dwarfs require frequent application of lindane, chlordane, or D.D.T. to prevent wire worms and slugs.

The pansy is best grown in pots or boxes. They require a rich, loose soil, must be kept moist and, to prolong the blooming season, the spent flowers should be picked off. If they go to seed the blooming ceases.

SWEET PEAS:

Those who wish to grow sweet peas, be sure to select the winter blooming variety. The blossoms must be taken off almost daily. The soil must be rich in nitrogen. The nurseries can supply nitrogen bacteria to inoculate the soil. The sweet pea grows a very heavy root system, often three feet deep - for that reason the soil must be rich, loose, and friable. A sandy loam with a lot of humus is ideal.

Next week we will talk about window-boxes.

would be accurate, provided, of course, we were all agreed as to the amount of grace allowable to amateurism.

To give an unfavorable review to a person who does not stand solely on his merits as an actor is a difficult and unhappy task.

On the other hand, to imply to a prospective playgoer that a play is entertaining, when it will undoubtedly give boredom, or downright embarrassment, is unfair to readers who, depending upon our recommendation, put forth time and money to attend a production.

The question of subsidy is implied in all local dramatics; the issue of their being worthy of support is always present. There should, of course, be no prohibition upon those who are interested in dramatics exercising what talents and energy they have. There is question, however, as to whether they merit a special, semi-civic position, as subsidized culture.

Time nowadays, it appears, is at a minimum. Television and movies offer some extremely fine entertainment, in fact, more than enough to absorb most persons leisure budget. One is not expected to support amateur pianists, tennis players, or poets, with purse and time, and it is questionable whether only talent is involved in dramatics. The finished actor who draws and holds audiences is, it seems to us, the product of application, experience and training ..supplemented by talent. Since there is very much dramatic activity on the Peninsula, it is not surprising that the supply, even of talent, runs thin.

The Spectator has put serious thought on the matter and decided that the only solution is to treat all openings as news events. . .objectively reporting details of costuming and scenery, and listing the players. We shall not comment on the merit of the performances. Such a policy will deprive the person who gives an effective performance of praise, and that is regrettable. Yet the ethical question of whether a housewife or businessman actor deserves untempered critical treatment, is entirely too complex to allow of a satisfactory standard of review. lbw
